

Abstract

A plasmid DNA that encodes one or more antigenic genes operably linked to a promoter and a truncated retroviral 3' LTR exhibits both enhanced safety and acceptable efficiency of expression of antigenic proteins.